

We're Here To Help

We've never been forced to face anything like the Quarantines imposed upon everyone to batle the Coronavirus pandemic.

More than almost any other business, our area restaurants and bars were hit hard when forced to close and limit themselves to carry out or delivery.

And while the public seems to have been gripped by panic as hoarding at grocery stores continues, we can not point out enough how important it is to help our small businesses to go through this situation.

Village Voices has teamed up with Elliott Graphix to do what we can to try and help. And towards that end, we present to you the Corona Carry Out Conquest.

Here's how it works. Over the next two months, place a carry out order from any ten of the establishments listed below. Once you have, mail us the receipts to prove you did your part, along with a shirt size, and you will get a free Corona Conquest t-shirt made by Elliott Graphix.

There is no cost to the restaurants to participate, because we know that some might not be able to keep their doors open. They may drop out at any time if things get too difficult - so check this page each week to see who is participating. (But as long as you did order from one while it was involved, that will count as one of your ten.)

While we totally understand and agree with the quarantine, we want to do what we can to help our advertisers get through it.
